Certification of Translation Accuracy

We, Certling Ltd, an accredited member of the Association of Translation Companies (Membership No. 2023ATCAS1434), confirm that the attached English translation of the Italian document(s) provided by our client is a faithful and accurate rendition of the original document(s) to the best of our ability and understanding.

In order to enhance readability and traceability, the translation is presented in a tabular format. Each row in the table corresponds to a specific section of the original document. The first column contains numerical identifiers that refer to the original text blocks, and the second column offers the corresponding English translation.

This certification solely attests to the accuracy of the translation and does not vouch for the authenticity of the original document or the veracity of its content. Certling accepts no responsibility for how the translation may be used by the client or any other third parties.

Enclosed with this certification are copies of both the original documents and the translation.
